Longer messages:

Mom's quotes: Life is what you make it; worry about nothing; we got by;
there but for the grace of God go I; as a man thinketh, so is he; I figure I have 2 choices – give in or fight and live.

I pray for strength as I consider (the) possibility of parenthood.

My grandmother and my mother's kind unconditional love, my lessons learned as a young mother myself.

My mom is an amazing encourager and I strive to be more like her every day. She does not know a stranger and makes people feel special by asking about their lives and hangs on every word! She always believes in me!

When I had breast cancer, I was nurtured by the prayers of my church congregation and people representing Muslims, Jews and Baptists. Prayers were very effective. I have been in remission for 24 years.

My mother nurtured me and my siblings and taught us to be the mothers we are today. I miss her everyday and I am so grateful for life from her.

Until this exercise I had not thought of all the people who nurtured me – my mother, father, grandmother, aunts & uncles, our next-door neighbors Uncle (not really) Jack & Auntie Billy, Rose Conza a neighbor who made me doll clothes from the factory apron remnants and Eve Porter who brought us young girls to the Girls Friendly Society.

Mama and Dede and Nessie and Beary Bear and Weda. And I wish for it to rain CVSP (child?)

Mom – prayers and thoughts on her anniversary today.

My mum is always the calm in family's storm, making sure everything is cared for and organized. I am so grateful for everything she has done.

Aunt Mimba?, Aunt Manda, a teacher here or there. Pray I can provide the same for others.

My mom Jane has always nurtured me & all those around her. She was the greatest gift a daughter could ask for.

Thank you, Mom always loved!

My dear smart and fun mother. Love you mom! And my older sister!! Thank you!

My grandmother Lorraine gave me the courage to do things I never dreamed I could do!

Robert has nurtured me along with all my friends.

All living things in our world.

A mother who would always listen and give wise advise.

You can be whatever you want -
